AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

A MAN WHO COULD NOT BEAR SHAME.

Death From Hydrophobia Caused by the Bites of a Mad Coyotes—The Louisiana Lottery in North Dakota—A New U. S. Warship Launched.

SANTA FE, N.M., June 4.—The Ortiz murder mystery is about to come to an ending by the police finding his revolver in a pawn shop here. Ortiz was a young politician who was found partly covered with sand in a deep ravine, with four bullet wounds through his body in the region of the heart, and several cuts about his head inflicted by a knife. The officers believe they are on the right track and are creating much local excitement by pushing the researches. A man named Schoemaker sold the pistol to a man named Martinez, who afterwards pawned it.

A Tramp's Death.

BUTTE, Mont., June 4.—The body of a man dressed in miner's clothes was found this morning under a Blaen foot bridge a mile and a half south of Silver Bow on the Utah and Northern railroad. His back and legs were broken, and he had evidently fallen from the cars while stealing a ride. In his pocket were found tax receipts of Deerlando county bearing the name of W. A. Morrall. Nothing further is known of him.

Horrible Hydrophobia.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 4.—Antonio Montoyo died at El Rito last night from hydrophobia, being the third death in the past month from bites of a mad coyote in Edelman's cattle camp. During the night while the men were asleep a coyote with rabies entered the camp, biting four men. Two died several days after being bitten, but Montoyo lingered thirty days. For the past three days he had terrible convulsions, frothing at the mouth continually. The fourth man is sick and the doctors fear he will also die.

A Fatal Quarrel.

BLOCKSBURG, Cal., June 4.—George Whitton and George Davis, two half-breeds, this morning while drinking got into a dispute and had two fist fights. They then started in with pistols. They clinched and fell and Whitton was getting the best of it and was on top when Davis' pistol was discharged and Whitton was shot in the breast. He died in a few minutes.

Couldn't Bear the Shame.

BUTTE, Mont., June 4.—William P. Fixley, railroad laborer, who came here recently from Helena with his wife and two daughters, aged respectively sixteen and eighteen years, committed suicide this morning. The cause was domestic troubles. Soon after the family arrived here the three women went to work as waiters in the Theatre Comique. This preyed on Fixley's mind, and he secured a revolver and threatened to take his own life. This morning the wife and daughters returned from the Comique at 3 o'clock and refused to enter their rooms unless Fixley gave up the revolver which he refused to do. Shortly after they entered their own rooms and found Fixley on the floor, dead with a bullet through his head. He left a letter upbraiding his wife and charging her with responsibility for the deed.

Trying to Control North Dakota.

BISMARCK, N. D., June 4.—Baffled in the attempted to again control the Legislature of Louisana, which that body called it into existance the Louisiana Lottery Company is preparing to win its way in North Dakota. For two or three weeks there has been a suspicion in the minds of men who have been instrumental in killing the lottery bill that the lottery advocates were preparing to again attempt to secure a charter in this State. An investigation was started and it has developed the fact that this State is now swarming with paid agents of the lottery whose mission is to pick out men in each legislative and senatorial district for nomination as candidates for legislature. In the event of ultimate defeat in Louisiana and that seems to be assured, it is said that the lottery company will exert itself to capture the next legislature before it is elected instead of trying to buy it after the session opens.

Curious Surgical Operation.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., June 4.—Surgeon Girard, stationed with the Eleventh Infantry at Fort Niagara, near Youngstown, has performed an exceedingly difficult operation upon Thomas Brighton, aged seventy years, one of the oldest hotel men in Niagara county. Brighton has complained some time of a suffocated feeling and his breath grew shorter and shorter every day. Physicians both here and in Buffalo pronounced the disease asthma. Dr. Girard was consulted, and after testing the man's lungs found water in them. An incision in Brighton's back near the ribs was made and a pump inserted. By means of this operation the lungs were relieved of an amount of water filling four bottles. The patient was greatly relieved and the wound is rapidly healing.

Warship Launched.

CHESTER, Pa., June 4.—The gunboat Bennington was launched at Roach's shipyard this morning. The vessel, a companion of the Concord, launched a few months ago.

Double Murder and Robbery.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 3.—A double robbery and murder which was committed in Zuputa county, Texas, near the Mexican line has just been discovered. The two dead bodies were recognized as Mexican gamblers, but their names are not known. They were found in a pasture. The heads were severed from the bodies. When the men were last seen they were said to have about $1000 on their persons.

Iron and Steel Workers Association.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 3.—The annual convention of the amalgamated association of iron and steel workers opened this morning with 200 delegates from all parts of the country. The session was devoted to routine business.

Steamer Safe.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—Some uneasiness has been manifested for the safety of the steamer Emily, bound hence for Coos Bay, which is now several days overdue. She left two days ahead of the steamer Noyo and was in a sinking condition. The steamer Truckee arrived from Port Orford this morning, bringing news that the Emily had put into some port south of Orford for repairs and would proceed to San Francisco in a few days.

An Old Case.

PORT TOWNSEND, June 2.—The trials of H. B. Beecher, Brooks and Harned, ex-customs officials indicted fourteen months ago for defrauding the government out of various sums of public money, will be commenced to-morrow in the United States district court in Seattle. The treasury department it is understood has issued instructions to Patrick H. Winston, United States prosecuting attorney, to dismiss the charges against Beecher and Brooks and to vigorously prosecute Harned. Since the government has thoroughly examined the accounts of Beecher and Brooks it has been ascertained that no defalcation was apparent. Instead of Brooks embezzling any public funds, his records and vouchers indicate that the government is indebted to him for over $400. Prominent officials from the treasury department at Washington will be in attendance at the trial. The very best legal talent in the Northwest has been secured to defend Harned, and the case promises to be hotly contested.

Protesting Against the Measure.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 4.—A delegation of about 100 importers from New York, appeared to-day before the Senate Committee on Finance, to protest against the passage of the McKinley tariff bill. J. M. Constable of Arnold, Constable & Co., was chief spokesman for the delegation. He presented the formal protest of importers of New York.

Died a Pauper.

CINCINNATI, June 4.—Alfred F. Perrin died in the city hospital last night of typhoid pneumonia, in practically destitute circumstances. He was the inventor of the Gatling gun, for which he received $30,000. He lived in Cincinnati for the past five years, had was at one time worth $150,000, but lost it in speculation.

Railway Employees Strike.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 4.—Two hundred and fifty employees of the Consolidated Street Railway struck this morning for an increase in wages. They demanded sixteen cents an hour for conductors, fifteen for drivers and $1.50 per day for barn men.

NEXT YEAR'S CENSUS.

The Preparations Made For the Coming Enumeration.

OTTAWA, June 1.—Although it is almost a year before the census enumerators will descend on the land, nevertheless Mr. Geo. Johnston, Government Statistician, has the work mapped out already and the greater portion of the details filled in. The taking of censuses, like everything else in this world, obeys the general law of progression, and each decennial stock-taking is an improvement on its predecessor. Those who believe that the de facto system is the only true method of taking a census will, of course, think that the adherence to the de jure plan is a defenceless piece of conservatism. Even these, however, may be somewhat reconciled when they know that the latter is to be observed with limitations. For instance, the enumerators will be instructed not to take a member of a family who has been out of the country for twelve months, or any member of a family who has professedly left the country with no intention of returning. It is the intention to obtain the most minute statistical information possible, so that a real picture of the social, industrial, educational, and numerical state of the country may be obtained. For instance, the schedules left with manufacturers will be very complete, and will contain questions and answers to which will form an excellent basis of fact for the new labor statistics to start upon. Some of the questions contained in the United States schedules have been objected to by hypercritically censorious persons in that country as partaking of the inquisitorial. The questions that have been particularly objected to are:

Whether suffering from acute or chronic disease, with name of disease and length of time afflicted.

Whether defective in mind, sight, hearing, or speech, or weather crippled, maimed, or deformed, with name of defect.

Whether a prisoner, convict, homeless child, or pauper.

Is the house you live in hired, or is it owned by the head or a member of the family?

If owned by the head or a member of the family, is the house free from mortgage incumbrance?

If house is owned by head or member of family and mortgaged, what is post-office address of owner?

The Canadian schedule will contain similar queries. It should be remembered, however, that the enumerator and everybody else concerned in the compilation is sworn to secrecy. The information thus obtained in detail therefore, will come out in the form of statistics. When the immense advantage to the State of an accurate estimate of every fact appertaining to the people is considered not only should every citizen be ready to answer, but, moreover, should be anxious to secure as correct a return as possible.

High School Entrance Examination.

This examination is to be held in the High School building, Victoria, on June 11th, at 9 a.m. As it is to be held simultaneously in the other cities, it is evident that the ennui has again moved the education department in the right direction.

Arrived.

Bass XXXX Ale (Labab's Wool) at the Occidental Hotel bar.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

BRITISH MEN-OF-WAR SHOULD GO TO BEHRING SEA.

Says the London Times—The Duke and Duchess Arrive at Ottawa—Premier Mercier Snubs the Royal Visitors—Sainfoin, a Dark Horse Wins the Derby.

OTTAWA, June 4.—At the Methodist conference held here to-day Rev. T. G. Williams of Montreal was elected president, and Rev. Crowthers of Ottawa secretary. The latter declined to act.

Anti Jewish Policy Suspended.

LONDON, June 4.—The Czar has issued a ukase ordering the abandonment of the Russian anti-Jewish policy for one year. This measure is understood to have been taken in deference of the protests against the recent wholesale expulsions of Jewish merchants, lawyers and other prominent Hebrews which have taken place in Russian Poland, Southern Russia, and other parts of the empire, and is merely a tentative fact that many officials against the Czar were opposed to the harsh anti-Jewish measure adopted by the Government influenced by the Czar, to give consideration to the protest of victims of law with the result of its temporary suspension.

An American Wedding in London.

LONDON, June 4.—A pretty wedding celebrated yesterday was that of Ballard Smith, of New York, to Miss Catharine Butterfield, also of New York, at Savoy chapel. The bride was given away by Robt. Lincoln, United States Minister to the Court of St. James. Major Post, of the U. S. military attache in London, was best man. There was a large attendance of Americans. Creighton Webb, one of the Vanderbilt family presided at the organ during the ceremony.

More Conspiracy.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 4.—It has come to the knowledge of the police that Nihilists in France have engaged in a fresh conspiracy against the life of the Czar. The French police have been placed on the track of the conspirators.

To be Court Martialed.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 4.—A venire has been placed in the hands of the proper authorities for military men to act as jurors in the court martial of Lieut. Agostin D. Iturbide for the publication of a letter in the Tiempo newspaper criticising the acts of the President of the Republic, who, as in the United States, is commander-in-chief of the army and navy. The work of summoning the officers who will act as jurors will be started to-day. The trial, owing to the high social standing of Iturbide, and the fact of his being the grandson of the first Emperor of Mexico, will be the most interesting court martial since that of Maximilian, of whom he is the adopted heir.

Napoleonistic.

LONDON, June 3.—The Times says the sending of the American cruisers to Behring's Sea smacks too much of Napoleon's methods, and thinks that British men-of-war should promptly follow. The pressure of the Irish vote, the Times thinks, has changed Blaine's desire to settle the fisheries question in a diplomatic manner.

FROM WESTMINSTER.

Mayor Brown's Election Assured—Death of Bishop D'Herbomez.

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 4.—The largest, the most successful, and by far the most enthusiastic political meeting of the present campaign took place at Herring's opera house last night. The hall was filled to the doors with a very orderly throng of people. Mayor Brown, the first speaker, stated that he was a candidate to represent the city in the local House. He was not a supporter of the Government nor yet an Opposition. He was an exponent of certain principles and asked to be returned on these grounds. He continued a very able address lasting about an hour and a half and was applauded almost every sentence. Thomas Cunningham followed. He was also a candidate for the city, but a supporter of the present Government. He occupied the stage about an hour commenting on his published address and defending his actions in the House during the past session. J. C. Armstrong in response to repeated calls from the multitude gave a short address in his usual racy style in favor of Mr. Brown, which brought down the House. The feeling of the meeting was decidedly in sympathy with Mr. Brown. His election is considered certain by a large majority.

The spring court of assizes opened this morning. Hon. Mr. Justice McCreight presiding. Following is the docket: John Brady, prison breach; Frank Wilson, larceny; Alexander Houston, murder; Larkinitze, murder; Sam, Jennie, Annie, and crazy Annie (Indians) murder.

Bishop D'Herbomez, Vicar Apostolic of British Columbia, died here at nine o'clock last night. He has been an invalid for the past year from dropsy combined with rheumatism. The deceased was a native of Brillon, France and 78 years of age. The remains will

DOESN'T LIKE ROYALTY.

Premier Mercier Refuses to Meet the Duke of Connaught.

MONTREAL, June 4.—The talk at the clubs and in society circles last night was the snub evidently premeditated and administered by Premier Mercier to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. Since the advent of the royal party here, he has studiously avoided them. He was one of the guests invited to meet them at dinner on Monday evening at Sir Geo. Stephen's, but he preferred to preside at the distribution of prizes to the scholars of the night schools. He was again absent to-day, although specially invited at an excursion down the Lachine rapids. Mercier's radical friends are delighted, and say his attitude is perfectly consistent with his democratic and republican ideas, but society, especially among the English element, is highly incensed and indignant that their royalties should have been slighted. Sir George Stephen does not care to speak of the incident. Mercier sent no apology.

BEHRING SEA TROUBLES.

Papers Will Not be Laid Before Parliament Until the Affair is Settled.

LONDON, June 2.—Parliament reassembled to-day. In the House of Commons Sir James Ferguson, parliamentary secretary for the foreign office, declined to lay on the table papers relative to negotiations with the United States concerning the Behring sea trouble until the question is settled.

Sir James also stated that neither the French nor English governments had received any information of the landing from the French warship of officers and men on the coast of Newfoundland, who ordered American fishermen to remove their nets, and upon their refusal to do so, removed them themselves. He was sure, he declared, that officers in both the English and French services could be depended upon to preserve a conciliatory attitude pending the arrangement of the Newfoundland fisheries trouble. The government had every reason to believe that the alarming reports concerning the situation of affairs in Newfoundland are incorrect.

ROYALTY AT OTTAWA.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught Arrive at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, June 4.—Despite the drizzly rain which fell here all morning the ardour of the Ottawa citizens was in no way dampened and a right royal welcome was extended to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught on their arrival here to-day. The special train was looked to arrive here at 1:15 and it steamed into the station some ten minutes ahead of time. Their Royal Highnesses were received by Lord and Lady Stanley, Sir John McDonald and other ministers of the cabinet. The guard of honor was supplied from the Governor-General's foot guards and an escort from Princess Louise dragoon guards. After arriving the party drove to the Senate where an address was presented by the mayor of Ottawa on behalf of the council and citizens. The galleries and floor of the chamber were crowded. A surging mass of humanity was outside the buildings and they cheered the royal visitors both on entering and leaving the chamber. The royal party then took luncheon with Sir John, afterwards driving along the principal streets of the city and leaving for Montreal at 4:15 p. m.

THE DERBY.

Sainfoin Wins in 3:40—Surefoot, the Favorite, Badly Beaten.

LONDON, June 4.—Following were the starting horses in the Derby: Surefoot, Golden Gate, Kirkham, Lenord, Sainfoin, Martagon, Rathbeal, Orwell, Polybius.

Later—Sainfoin 1st, Lenord 2nd, Orwell 3rd. Sainfoin's time 3.40.

LONDON, June 4.—The race for the Derby stakes, 5000 sovereigns to winner, 500 to nomination of winner, and 200 sovereigns to the third horse, was run at Epsom Downs this morning. J. Porter's R. H. Sainfoin, by Springfield, dam Sanda, the second choice in betting won. Le Fevre's C. H. C. Leonard, by Tristam, dam Lanoie, and the Duke of Westminster's Orwell, by Beneir, dam Lizzie Agnes third. The weather was showery, dull and unsettled. The betting was unchanged from that of last night when odds were Sainfoin 9 to 2, Leonard 12 to 1, Orwell 10 to 1. Surefoot was odds on the favorite at 20 to 1.

LONDON, June 4.—The crowd present at Epsom Down to witness to-day's race for the Derby stakes was not as large as usual partly because the belief that Surefoot could not be beaten had reduced the race to a small field. Surefoot was the greatest favorite that ever started for the Derby since he won the two thousand guineas. Hundreds of thousands of pounds have been invested on him at odds and his defeat caused quite a sensation. Sainfoin steadily held second place in the betting during the winter and many shrewd people have maintained that he would beat Surefoot over the Derby mile and half.

Orwell was first away and led to the distance post. At this point Sainfoin went to the front and coming away won by three quarters of a length from Lenord, a neck before Orwell, and favorite Surefoot fourth. Betting just before the start was: Surefoot 9 to 4, on Sainfoin 7 to 1; against Lenord 14 to 1; Rathbeal 14 to 1; Golden Gate 3 to 1; Kirkham 50 to 1; Martinfrock 100 to 1; Orwell 100 to 1. Place betting: Sainfoin 2 to 1; on Leonard 4 to 4.

Fine Mutton.

The sloop Daisy arrived this morning from Salt Spring Island with a full load of fine fat young sheep for the local markets. The mutton which was [illegible] grass fed and tender.

Coming Forth.

THE YARN OF THE YOUNG RAILWAY MAN.

Down at Prince Arthur's Landing—A Hill of Fare That Was All Hash—Forcing Him with a Revolver—How a Man Who Was Drunk Saved the Train.

V.

THE YARN OF THE YOUNG RAILWAY MAN.

"Last spring I was down at Prince Arthur's Landing, on Lake Superior, out of work and waiting until the ice broke up on the chance of a job. At last I was flat broke and couldn't stand it any more. I went down to the agent to see if there was anything to be had on the C. P. R. construction.

"Anything to be had down the line?"

"Yes, if you care to walk there's plenty of work down at McKay & McAllister's camp."

"Well, that camp was near two hundred miles away and most of the road was not even graded; besides I was broke and couldn't even pay my way at the camps, so I asked him what else there was."

"Nothing but section work," says he.

"How much?" says I.

"Dollar 'n a quarter a day and board at four fifty a week."

"When does the next train go?"

"Six thirty sharp and the place is Kamanasta station."

Well, it was better to pay my way than to go on bumming at an hotel, so I left some of my things with the landlord, and went up to Kamanasta that night. When I got out of the caboose and looked round the moon was up and all round the station the hills went up steep and all patched with snow. The place was at the meeting of two valleys and the river, the Dawson, was a big rapid just below where they met. The railway bridge was right over the rapid and half hid in the spray, and the platform and station buildings and tank reached pretty nearly to the beginning of the bridge. When the train had got into the rock cut on the other side I went down to the section house and camped on the floor for the night.

Well, I was just about half awake next morning when I heard talking, and the boys seemed to be mad about something, but I was sleepy and didn't take much account of it. They were all cursing the cook, and calling him a few things, I'd never have said to me, and it seemed to be all about hash. They said they'd had nothing but hash for a month, and swore they'd lynch him if he ever served it up any more. As for the cook, as far as I could see, he just stood in the kitchen door and grinned.

When I'd had a wash I fixed things up with the foreman and we had breakfast, the last of the hash, the boys said. After that we got out the handcar and pumped along over the bridges and up the peaks of the hills, with the river underneath, still all choked up with ice. That was my first spell at work on a finished line of railway, and it wasn't nearly as hard as on construction. But it was just fine after the day's fixing of ties and filling along the dump, to pump along down grade flying round the curves and clattering through cuts and over trestles and culverts. I couldn't help feeling a bit squeamish though lest we'd meet a train coming up all of a sudden. There were a few bets as to whether the cook would serve up hash again. They all swore it'd go hard with him if he did.

Well, we sat down at the table and the cook stood looking against the wall at the head, and grinning so that I thought he must be crazy. In came the cookee, scared as the mischief, and slapped down the dishes, hash every blamed one of them, and just turned tail and lit out. Well, the whole crowd of us got up and made a break for the cook, and it looked as if he'd be lynched sure, but he just stood there looking against the wall with his fat greasy arms crossed, and his dirty old fat mug smiling away at us. When he never made a move those who were in front stopped and stared at him. Then he drew a revolver, a big, heavy Colt's, smacked his lips, cocked the trigger, and, true as I sit here, boys, levelled it right at the nearest man and says:

"Do ees 'ash ain't good?"

Boys, it's no use bucking agin' the cook when he contracts for the grub.

Well, from that time on the growling got worse every day, the grub was bad, the house leaked, the cook was dirty, the board was dear, and who'd care to work for a dollar and a quarter a day? Why, one would think we were Chinamen. At last, after I'd been there about a week, we had to spend one afternoon loading a gravel train, and got through at six. Then up comes a second train and they orders us to load that up too. No, time's up, says we, and walked off to the station with the shovels, mad that they should try to run us for niggers and cheat us out of our grub too.

As we got near the house the cook came out to the door and wanted to know if we'd forgotten it was "hash time."

"Hash time it is, we'll hash you, you infernal old swindler; take that!" and away went a shovel at the cook's head. He drew his revolver, but before he could raise it he got such a whack across the wrist that he dropped it like a hot poker. Then came three or four stones, and a brick, and he lit out. We chased him about half a mile into the hills and turned his dunnage out of the station house. There was a gale of wind getting up and we made out he'd have a night he wouldn't forget in a hurry.

Well, we were just beginning to think about supper when Baldy Jim from the Landing, that navigation was open when he left, and that he'd got a five gallon keg with him. We clubbed together and bought him out, trundled the keg up to the station, and had that instead of the hash for supper. Oh, boys, that was awful stuff! Some of it fell on my overalls and as I live it burnt a hole in them. Blue smoke came out of it when we pulled out the bung. But no liquor had been along that way for months, and the detectives had run half the whiskey traders out of the country. If there'd been fair play and licensed traders with gaol for selling rot gut, we'd have had decent stuff, and there'd never have been what happened that night. As it was, there was a general drink up empty stomachs. I'd eaten some bread and butter and a few crackers, so that the stuff didn't go straight to my head, and when I saw how bad it was I took as few drinks as I knew how and let on that I was as full as the rest, for I knew they'd be half dead next day, sure as fate. When I turned into my bunk I was pretty full, but the rest were just laid out paralyzed. They were more poisoned than drunk, and as to Baldy he lit out all together, for the boys would have pale killed him next day, and he knew it. I suppose it couldn't have been more than an hour when I was woke up by the most horrible roar and crash and heat you could think of, and I just jumped clear out of bed and the window. I'd have been burnt in my bunk sure if I'd stopped to rub my eyes, much less dress. There I stood shivering in a gale of wind, and the whole upper story one roaring mass of flames. Oh, Lord, what's become of the boys? thought I, and I made a break for the kitchen door, grabbed a pail, and broke right through the smoke into the messroom. There lay the three of the boys, and the foreman was pouring whisky over them, trying to wake them up. I dashed the pail of water over the whole lot of them, and that woke them all in a hurry, I can tell you. I set to work and kicked and hauled and banged them about until I guess they thought I was worse than the fire; but I got them out alive. The rest were over at the station, I guess. While I was kicking up all that shindy, a horrible notion came into my head, and I did just wish I was sober enough to think the thing out. You see there was a sharp grade down past the station to the bridge, and that was so curved round the base of the hills that a train coming up the valley would be half way down the grade before it shot round a curve, and only come in sight of the station when it was right on top of it. There was a semaphore fixed so as to signal trains before they came to the curve, but I didn't know how to work the thing. Then it would be all right for a slow train, but this was the western express that even now was overdue, and never stopped at Kamanasta unless it was flagged. Boys, wasn't it horrible to be drunk, and to know that if I didn't act like a sober man that train was going to be wrecked? I thought, you see, that the engineer would have nothing but the glare of a bush fire ahead, and he'd think nothing of that on a wide grade—he'd crowd on steam to make up his time, and stema down the grade until he came slap into the burning station, with no time to slack up. And then, perhaps, he'd try to break right through, to prevent the train catching, and if he got into the bridge, just a wooden truss bridge, what then?

I saw that in a few minutes more it would not only be the section house and the platform on fire, but the whole track, the station, the tank, the bridge itself must all go. With a wind like that blowing nothing on earth could save the place, or the bridge either.

The platform was on fire, but I slipped into the station from the back to see if the operator had wired to the next station. But there he sat, with the machine ticking away in front of him, and a bottle alongside of it singing "London's burning." I went right up to him

"Say, have you been signalling to stop the up train?"

"Wha's that for, eh?"

Well, I got so mad that I gave him one over the mouth, and then another welt across the ears and another, and another until he looked so sick that I gave him one rousing kick through the back door, and left him sprawling in a pool of slush. That kinder soothed me.

What I'd oughter have done was to take a lantern along to the top of the grade and signal the train when she came up, but I had'nt sense enough, being too drunk still. But I thought I'd got to save the train some way or another, so I ran along 'til I came to the trolly shed, up by the siding. I could'nt get any key for the padlock, but there were some ties lying handy. I took up the first that came, rammed the door all to pieces, and dragged out the hand car. How I did it, I don't know, but I got the thing on the rails somehow, and went off pumping up the grade with the wind right in my teeth. I had the red lantern all right enough. I did'nt forget that. It seemed hours before I got to the top, and all the time I had the bridge in my mind just as I saw it last burning from end to end, down there in the spray of the falls. I guess if I'd been sober, boys, I'd have known there'd be lots of time for a train to pull up without getting lost or burnt either, but then you see I was drunk, and I'd only one idea in my head—the train had got to be stopped.

I'd just come into the beginning of the great long cutover, a rock cut five miles from the station, when the noise of the car seemed to get louder and I put it down to my being between the rocks. The roar got more and more, and I concluded it was some rapids down in the river, or perhaps it was the wind in the cutting; and then all in a minute the train came thundering round the curve and the great big headlight blinded me and got bigger and bigger. But all I knew was that I'd got to stop the train. I picked up the red lantern, let go the handles of the car and waved it round and round and yelled like a demon. Then down came the engine, crash. I felt the car fly up under me, and I took a long jump right at the rocks and the darkness. I guess I must have lit somewhere.

Next thing I knew I was lying on my back and there was the rattle of panes of glass and a rumble and rattle of all kinds and heavy clicking sounds and I was all shaken up. My arm, that's lame now, seemed made of lead, and somebody was trying to melt it down into bullets over a fire I thought; and there was more rumble like a train and sounds of talking over me. And then I felt the rumble stronger and I knew we were moving. Then I opened my eyes and there was a great big roaring sound and I knew we must be passing the side cut on the curve. Then I saw it all and I dragged myself off the ground and stood up and yelled—

"Stop! stop! stop! the station's on fire!"—crash down I came on my back and the brakes were grinding and the train nearly off the rails, and the people yelling, and all the air full of red glare, and hot as flames. Then we were still a moment; and then the wheels were turning round again, and I knew the train was backing out of Kamanasta.

I might have known, boys, that they'd have time to stop even without being warned—but then you see, I was drunk.

STRENGTH AN INCOME.

Prevent Nervous Prostration by Taking Care of Your Physical Resources.

There are women whose strength would only suffice for their own homes, and the demands in them, if a reserve is to be left for the future when the strength-producing powers are gone and physical life is impaired, who give more strength outside than inside their homes. Man and women shrink from financial poverty in old age, but the wealth of nations can not save from physical poverty if strength has not been administered wisely.

Every man and woman has a right to a spiritual, a mental, life that will minister to the future. It is the reserve fund on which they must draw when the world forgets them on its onward march; when enfeebled vision and halting step leave them at the roadside for the chariot of death. How many men and women who are busily hoarding money for that future are hoarding the strength that will make it doubly rich? It is appalling, the rate at which we live, using every day every ounce of strength we make and drawing on future strength. It saps life of pleasure. The grandest music fails to wake the souls of many who listen, "because they were too tired to hear it." The noblest picture is but half seen because of a mind cluttered with worthless cares more often than by those that are truly worth bearing. Faces grow old and wrinkled and voice shrill and dissonant, not in service, but worry. We do live in a busy world. And who would rather not wear out than rust out? But let us live to a purpose; let us wear out evenly, not in holes that require patching. What service we render, let it be given in health, not disease; in joy, not in pain; and we can give this service only as we administer our strength with wisdom, not dissipate it in extravagant waste. As there are men and women who watch the outlay of every penny, so there are men and women who must watch the outlay of every physical and mental effort. The value of the individual to himself and the world depends on the nicety of his adjustment of his relations to its demands upon him. We should develop a wholesome shame for disease; we should see in it the result of transgression; and, when so seen, it leads to repentance and conversion. Two women were overheard conversing recently. The conversation ran something like this:

"You do not seem very well, Carrie; what is the matter?"

"I'm not well at all. I have all the symptoms of nervous prostration, just as I had them two years ago. Charlie is worried to death."

"Why do you try to do so much? Why do you not give up some things?"

"I just can't. I must keep doing all the time, or I am unhappy."

The woman was an efficient worker in a number of charities; but poor Charlie!

An earnest-looking man about forty, and unmarried, was talking to a group of his friends, men and women. The subject of the nervous, not to say irritable, condition in which so many men and women were living had been the subject of conversation, when with strong emphasis he said: "I would not allow my wife, if I had one, to belong to Dr. ——'s church. Every woman in it is filled with an evil spirit she calls work, and every woman in the church is suffering from nervous prostration. Is that the rest religion gives? I tell you that church is a woman-killer."

All men and women should study their own natures enough to know when to call, Halt!—to place the legend, "Thus far, and no farther," and live up to it. Then, when the emergencies make large demands, the exchequer will not be empty; poverty will not be added to the other burdens.

Treat your strength as you do your income—getting the best results for the amount expended, and leaving a margin for use in the non-productive days. —Christian Union.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

An Innocent Man Kept in Prison for Over Twenty Years.

George Stottler is a life convict in the Michigan City penitentiary. He has done penal service for the State since 1868. Stottler's friends have been tireless in their efforts to secure his release, and it begins to look now as though Stottler was convicted on perjured testimony, and that the State will be obliged to release from its service an innocent man.

The crime for which Stottler was sent up was a terrible one. He was a countryman near Anderson, and was always looked upon as a tough character. The crime was committed in 1868. Stottler, it is alleged, tried to borrow a horse from an old man named Isanoget. It was refused him. He then went to Anderson, bought a knife and got drunk. Returning in the evening, he went to the Isanoget residence and started a row in the house. Isanoget had two sons, whose ages were twenty and sixteen years respectively. The older of the boys started to put Stottler out of the house, but the young man was stabbed through the heart. The younger boy attempted to prevent Stottler from killing his brother, and started to interfere in his behalf. Young Isanoget had no sooner got within reach of the infuriated and blood-thirsty fiend than he too received a stab through the heart which killed him instantly. Stottler then threatened to kill the whole family, which consisted of the old man Isanoget, his wife and two or three small children. The old man, who was an invalid, saw that it was a question of life or death for all of them, and by a [illegible] and disarmed him. He was sentenced for life.

Stottler has protested his innocence from the time he was arrested on the terrible charge, claiming that he was a victim of mistaken identity. It appears that the testimony of the Isanoget girl was what convicted Stottler. The girl died last spring, and now comes the attorneys for Stottler, who claim that they have her affidavit stating that the testimony she gave during the trial was false.—Cor. St. Louis Republic.

His Last Concert.

One of the most pathetic of sights was that seen in the Boston music hall at the last concert given by Mario, the once famous tenor. He was poor, and the hall was filled with persons who had been ardent admirers of his wonderful art, and now that he had lost his art were willing to put money in his purse.

The tenor tried one of his great songs, but his decayed voice refused to sing the notes. Again he tried, and again he failed. Then, with a sad smile, and a slow, mournful movement of his head, he suffered the orchestra to play through the air, and retired from the stage amid the silence of the pitying audience.

Another pathetic story is told of Bottesini, a famous violinist, concerning his last concert at Parma:

It was a rainy evening and the managers had forgotten to send a carriage for the veteran, who set out on foot, and had gone some distance before a passing friend perceived him and made him enter his carriage.

Arrived at the concert room, Bottesini tuned his instrument and began to rub his bow with rosin. The rosin crumbled in his hands, and, turning to his friends with a sad half smile, he said, "See, it is so that Bottesini, too, will break up."

Then he grasped his loved instrument and drew the bow across the strings, but instantly stopped with a wondering look, for he felt something strange in the tone; his touch was answered less readily and certainly than of old.

Once more he tried, and once more stopped, this time with a smile, saying only, "It answers no more." His audience perceived nothing unusual in the performance, which they applauded as warmly as ever, but Bottesini seemed to feel the shadow of death.

On the following day he was stricken with illness, and soon after the wonderful hand was stilled forever.—Youth's Companion.

How Gold Rings Are Made.

Gold rings are made from bars nine to fifteen inches long. One of these bars, fifteen inches long, two inches wide and 3-16 of an inch thick, is worth $1,000, and will make 400 fourpennyweight rings. A dozen processes and twenty minutes' time are required to convert this bar into merchantable rings. First a pair of shears cuts the bar into strips. Then by the turn of a wheel a guillotine like blade attached to the machine cuts the bar into slices, one, two or three sixteenths of an inch wide. A rolling machine next presses out the slices and makes them either flat or grooved. Each strip is then put under a blow pipe and annealed. The oxide of copper comes to the surface and is put into a pickle of sulphuric acid, after which the gold is stamped "14 k," "18 k" or "18 k," according to quality. Next it is put through a machine which bends it into the shape of a ring of the size required. The ends are then soldered with an alloy of inferior fineness to the quality of the ring. Many people think that rings are molded because they can't see where they are soldered. The ring spins through the turning lathe, is rounded, pared and polished, first with steel filings, then with tripoli and rouge.—Rehoboth Herald.

How She Foiled the Thief.

Some years ago one of the present congressmen from New York state and his brother were examining the stock of a pawnshop in London with the hope of picking up some curiosities. They came across a necklace of green glass beads, which the New York man purchased for $2.50, intending to bring it home to his little daughter. The brother was surprised to find in the shop a counterpart of this necklace, which he brought home to his little girl. Two months later the latter showed her gift to a jeweler, who pronounced the glass beads to be emeralds, and who sold them afterwards for several thousand dollars. The member of congress, upon hearing this, took his necklace to the same dealer, who pronounced it to be composed of glass beads. The London pawn dealer had purchased them of a thief, who had stolen them from a wealthy woman. The latter kept the emeralds in a safe, and wore their glass counterparts. Of course no one could tell the difference when the necklace encircled her throat.—Exchange.

Gobelin Tapestry.

"When you hear people talk about getting Gobelin tapestry," says C. R. Clifford, of the Upholsterer, "they usually don't know what they are talking about. The Gobelin works are in France, and are subsidized by the government. They turn out goods designed for state gifts, and the same goods are not made in Philadelphia, although as the manufacturer of tapestries she is the metropolis of the world. It is not that we cannot make tapestries as valuable as the Gobelin, but who would buy them? No one could make them without immense subsidy. Chevreul, the great centenarian chemist, used to be the chemist of the Gobelin works. They spend a year in turning out as much of the article as could be made in a day or two at our rate of working. People frequently talk about Gobelin tapestry, but they apply the word to some fancy work done by the women. There is no manufacturer of it here."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Curious Ways of Bookkeeping.

The bakers here have a rather original way of keeping accounts which may be called a kind of bookkeeping by double entry. When the carrier delivers a loaf of bread, which, by the way, is about five [illegible] long, it is handed a wooden lath about a foot long by the party to whom he delivers the bread. From a collection of laths of the same size, one for each customer, he picks out this particular customer's one, and placing the two parallel, he cuts a groove across the face of both. In the final adjustment of accounts both laths have to have the same number of notches. Cheap, but ingenious. —Feolles (France) Cor. St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

VICTORIA CITY ELECTION

The Opposition Candidates.

ROBERT BEAVEN,
JOHN GRANT,
GEORGE L. MILNE,
FRANK G. RICHARDS, Jr.

THE CANDIDATES OF THE MAJORITY.

The Opposition candidates are, we verily believe, the candidates of a majority of the electors of the city. They are:—

ROBERT BEAVEN,
JOHN GRANT,
DR. MILNE,
F. G. RICHARDS, Jr.

It would be very difficult to select other four candidates possessing in an equal degree the qualifications essential in representatives.

Mr. BEAVEN has been one of the most prominent figures in provincial political life during the past twenty years. Of the old representatives now before the people for re-election, his name is the most honored and respected. This fact has been demonstrated time and again in Victoria, where he is personally best known, by the unwavering confidence of the electorate. He is a strong man because he is an honest man. As a representative, he has always been actuated by the high and honorable principles which have invariably guided his private actions—principles which, followed with the fidelity of positive conviction and a firm faith in the ultimate triumph of the cause he espoused, have won alike the admiration of his friends and the respect of his opponents. After a quarter of a century of parliamentary life, a large portion of which was passed as a Minister of the Crown, no charge of wrongdoing has ever been sustained against him. But, in addition to his high character as a man and as a politician, Mr. BEAVEN, of all men in public life, is the best informed on provincial affairs, on parliamentary procedure, and on the requirements of the country. As a private member of the Legislature he has exercised a surveillance over its proceedings which rightly belonged to the leader of the Government, and time and again he has saved the House the deep humiliation that would have followed the crass stupidity of the responsible advisers of the Crown.

Mayor GRANT is, perhaps, the best known person in Victoria. He is a pioneer; he has been a miner, an explorer, a contractor, a merchant, and to-day he is all these combined. A member of the Legislature from Cassiar for eight years, he has been an active participant in the business of the House during that period. Although not a strong party man, he has always consistently opposed the oligarchy that is now misruling the country. Possessing a strong personality, a sympathetic nature, a bright intellect, a generous heart and an open hand, Mayor GRANT's popularity can only be estimated by the number of his individual acquaintances, which will include a majority of the people of the Province. As a member of the House, and as a member of the House, Mr. GRANT has demonstrated his fitness for office, and there can be no doubt, if he continues in a representative capacity, that he will—and that, too, before long—attain to the highest position in the Government of the Province.

Dr. MILNE last summer, in the first election contest in which he ever engaged, came very near defeating the Attorney-General, who, afraid to confront the ordeal a second time, has ingloriously retired to Cowichan. In private and professional life Dr. MILNE is widely known and very highly respected. His moral and intellectual fiber is the kind of material out of which aggressive and successful reformers are made. Although new to the political arena, Dr. MILNE is no stranger to public affairs, nor yet in the moral and social life of our city. In conjunction with his colleagues, he is certain to prove a pains-taking, conscientious and useful representative.

FRANK G. RICHARDS, jr., is a young man of irreproachable character, of excellent business tact and ability, and of broad and liberal views. Many years experience in the Land Office, where he held a responsible position, has given him an intimate knowledge of the workings of one of the most important departments of the public service, which will be of great value to him as a representative.

These are the four candidates that the TIMES supports. We support them first, because they are in accord with our often-expressed opinion, that the ROBSON Government is unfit to retain power and ought to be defeated; and, second, because they are personally men of high standing, and as such, and without the influence of party affiliation, will serve the state with the single object of assisting in its development, encouraging its settlement, and securing the happiness and prosperity of all its people.

We ask the electors—the men especially who claim to be independent—is the "personnel" of the ticket not in every way acceptable? Backed by a majority of the electors, as it unquestionably will be on the 18th inst., it will, in the opinion of many, simply prove invincible.

THE MINERAL "TAX."

We do not believe that either the Attorney-General or the President of the Council dare furnish a written opinion, over their own signatures, to the effect that the Mineral Act is a tax. But the Colonist will reply that it has already spoken on the authority of these gentlemen. Unquestionably it has. They have said for political effect that the law was a tax and that the Order-in-Council consequently is legal. This authority, however, comes to us second hand and withal so vaguely put that if worst should come to worst, the parties to it may crawl out of it, or pass it by in silence as they have done before when cornered. The virtually so-called repeal of the Mineral Act at this juncture is an important matter, and so long as there is equally good authority as the Attorney-General, who pronounce the Order-in-Council invalid, the least the Government can do is to fortify their position with something more than bald assertions. If the Mineral Act is a tax the Government should be able to establish its position beyond cavil. Has it done so? It has not furnished a solitary precedent to show the soundness of its position. Nor can the Government do so. If it could have done so it would. Neither the Attorney-General nor the President of the Council dare take the affirmative over their own signatures.

THE TRUTH AND TAXATION.

The following from the Truth, a Government organ, is pretty good HENRY GEORGE doctrine, just now what the Colonist is fighting teeth and nails:

"We perceive that there are two or three things in this Province which require immediate attention and which need to be dealt with by a firm hand. During the past half year we have touched upon these subjects, have urged that changes in policy be made, and have indicated our opinion as to what those changes should be. We have held this principle first of all, that the public lands of the Province are the people's lands, and that they should be disposed of to those citizens who are now here, or those who may yet come here, and who are, or may be, willing to go upon them and till them and make them productive. We long ago urged this view, and in the Lieutenant-Governor's speech at the opening of the last session of the Legislature an appropriation was made to survey the public lands still held by the Government, so that people who desired to become settlers could be told where to go and could be facilitated in securing a homestead at the first cost charged for the land by the Government (which is only a trifle) or by free grant from the Crown. Several parties of surveyors are now at work surveying the residue of the public lands, and while we would like to see that work carried on on a far larger scale, the movement is in the right direction and the results will be beneficial as far as they go. At the next session of the House we would like to see an appropriation of at least $100,000 made for the purpose of obtaining such topographical information as would be a guide and index to every township and section in the province that is at all suitable for agriculture or grazing. Until this is done any Government that may be in power must continue to propagate one or other of two evils—either it must keep the lands in its own hands unproductive (and this will be the result to a great extent in either case), or it must sell them at a nominal price, or large tracts at less than what it can possibly form no estimate of the value of. Put such a tax on those lands so held that the owner will find it unprofitable to continue to hold them, and the difficulty is overcome. At present the tax is 7 cents per acre,—a mere bagatelle. A man can hold 1,000 acres, worth probably $50,000 or $100,000, for $70 a year. Put the taxes up to ten times that amount—or more if necessary, and you will get these lands speedily into the hands of people who will make them productive.

TAXING ENTERPRISE.

Mr. BEAVEN's speech at the workingmen's meeting amounted to this: He was in favor of reducing taxation on improvements, and pointed out that his efforts in the House had always been in that direction. Columns of Colonist argument will not convince the people that Mr. BEAVEN expressed any other opinion. This principle—the reduction of taxation on improvements—is already recognized in our laws, thanks to the exertions of Mr. BEAVEN. To be consistent the organ of the monopolists ought to advocate its repeal.

AN OPPONENT OF ROBSON & CO.

First blood was drawn by the Opposition at Nanaimo. Mr. KEITH, the member elected by acclamation, is the miners' representative, whose platform is distinctly opposed to that of the ROBSON Government. In a recent speech at Nanaimo, Mr. KEITH in explaining his views, expressed views almost identical to those held by the Opposition. Although classed nominally as an independent, holding the opinions that he does, he will only be able to find standing room on the side opposite to ROBSON, DAVIE & Co. Next session that side will be on the right of Mr. Speaker, and consequently Mr. KEITH will then become a Government supporter.

A WORD WITH MR. TURNER.

Just a word, to suggest a column of explanation. When, Mr. TURNER, you next appear before the public you will find that your position before the electors will be strengthened if you successfully explain away the foreign steamer business, as to which the Board of Trade took occasion, a few months ago, to complain to the Customs Department at Ottawa. We need not enter, at present, into the particulars. You understand the question, and, let us assure you, so do other gentlemen on both sides of politics. This is the first public opportunity that you have had to vindicate your character as a lover your country's interests, and to remove the "aspersions" of the Board of Trade. This is a friendly suggestion, and we hope it will be received in the spirit in which it is offered.

WHO ARE THE CONSPIRATORS?

Miss CAMERON is not carrying on an unequal contest with the Rev. P. McF. MACLEOD and the malignant instigators of that gentleman's unfortunate crusade against her professional reputation and character. Having truth on her side, Miss CAMERON has been able to defeat the savage assaults of her malicious adversaries. In doing so, Miss CAMERON has proved two things, first, that Mr. HALLIDAY told a falsehood to his pastor, which in all probability has been followed by others; and second, that Rev. Mr. MACLEOD, who was no doubt led innocently into a trap set by designing men, has thus far, to the great regret of his admirers and friends, failed to undo the grievous wrong inflicted upon a proposed victim of a conspiracy. We speak advisedly when we say that the real raison d'etre for the "corporal punishment" agitation has not yet been given to the public. The Hon. JOHN ROBSON may, or he may not have been, particeps criminis to a preconcerted plan, whereby it was hoped political capital would have been made at the expense of innocent teachers; but the fact is susceptible of proof that he was a party to the publication of an attack upon a feature of the educational system over which he wields autocratic control. The so-called Minister of Education, we repeat, aided and abetted clerical interference. Mr. HALLIDAY is JOHN ROBSON's humble and obedient servant and furnished the false data upon which Rev. Mr. MACLEOD was authorized to inveigh against a system which he believed to be common in our schools. The public want to know more about this scandalous "scandal", and if Mr. MACLEOD and Miss CAMERON continue their highly interesting correspondence, it is more than probable that the latter will succeed in getting to the bottom of the plot. She has already extorted from unwilling witnesses a portion of the truth, and ought to feel encouraged to proceed in the good work.

The original question of excessive corporal punishment has for the present been overshadowed by one of equal, if not greater importance. The severity of the punishment administered is a legitimate subject for discussion, and if any of the teachers can be shown to have exceeded the latitude allowed them by the regulations of the Board or the department, they should be cautioned against a repetition of the offense. The question, however, which we have now to consider is the bona fides of the information upon which the arraignment, and the systematic and malicious tale-bearing of the Principal. Let the charge which Miss CAMERON has prima facie proved be first disposed of before we enter upon a discussion of the original question. Neither the teachers nor the board care to fight hidden enemies.

THE LONDON TIMES AND STANLEY.

STANLEY, whose criticisms on British colonial apathy have aroused considerable comment more or less unfavorable, seems to have a defender in the London Times. That paper, discussing the "Failure of East Africa," in an article inspired, evidently by STANLEY's recent reception at Guildhall, expresses the opinion that his warning ought not to be disregarded." It finds that although STANLEY has not disguised his opinion about EMIN PASHA's conduct at Wadelai, and its disastrous consequences, he refused to pass any censure on the late governor of the equatorial province for lending his name. "The moral of STANLEY's argument," says the Times is, "He that will not when he may, when he will, he shall have nay." STANLEY asserts that England might have taken possession of the Congo territory when he returned from the expedition in which he solved the problem that had baffled LIVINGSTONE. The Congo State was allowed to be acquired by the King of the Belgians, and is now paying cent for cent on the outlay. "We have the most unimpeachable claims to our inheritance in Africa," says the Times, "which have been mainly opened up to civilization and commerce by English missionaries, traders, and explorers, and, according to the declarations of General VON CAPRIVI and his colleagues, those claims are not openly disputed. It must, however, be observed that the extension of the German sphere of influence means the restriction of British trade. It was made a matter of boasting yesterday in the Reichstag that a British caravan, which brought down a great quantity of ivory to the port of Bagamoyo within the customs regulations of the Germans, had to submit to an export duty of 15 per cent ad valorem. The German Government resolved, it seems, to undertake what is rather loosely described as the colonization of East Africa, with the object, as General CAPRIVI has stated, "of keeping intact the current of national feeling," which has grown sluggish since the war with France. Of course, Mr. STANLEY is not the British Government, and the acquisitions he has made are conditional upon their acceptance or rejection in Downing-street. We may be sure, however, that, if they are cast aside, they will fall into the hands of some other nation. Then, perhaps, when it is too late, we shall see our trade excluded by prohibitive duties from new markets which might have been free to all the world under our rule."

NANAIMO DISTRICT.

The Government is so unpopular in Nanaimo City and Nanaimo District, two constituencies returning three members, that they were afraid to put a single candidate in the field. Mr. THOMSON, one of the late Government members, has discreetly ran away in order that he may be able to fight again some other day. The city has returned an opponent of ROBSON, which is the first nail in the Government coffin. The District has three candidates in the field and the platform of each is uncompromisingly and irreconcileably opposed to the policy of the defunct Government. Two of these are, C. C. MCKENZIE and Dr. WALKEM, who are known as life-long supporters of the party successively led by Hon. GEO. WALKER and Hon. R. BEAVES. The other candidate, Mr. FOSTER, is a miners' representative, and takes his stand on the workingman's platform. In any event, there will be two representatives from this District who are not supporters of the ROBSON-DAVIE combination. When it is borne in mind that three districts in the late House sent two members to support the ringsters, the extent of the change in public opinion will be more apparent. The vote of Nanaimo in the next House will be reversed, making a difference against the Government of FIVE on a division. The Government is not tottering to its fall. It is dead already and the corpse is only awaiting interment.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Colonist has settled the question of the workingmen's vote. It has practically said that the Government party does not want it. The probability is that the Colonist will succeed in electing the entire Opposition Ticket.

It makes one smile to see the Colonist publish alleged intelligence from Kamloops to the effect that Mr. SEMLIN has hurt himself for finding fault with the Government in the matter of its bribe to paupers in Nicola, who are worth not less than $20,000. Imagine a man accepting alms from the Government who holds mortgages on good property to the amount of thousands of dollars and it is easy to imagine the condition of the public mind in Kamloops. The paupers don't want their names published. We should think not. Why is it that the Colonist does not editorially discuss distressed Nicola paupers worth all the way from five to seventy thousand dollars?

A CHAMPION OF CHINESE.

A Preacher Compares the Irish With the Mongolians.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Rev. Dr. L. S. Baldwin, of the Methodist Missionary Society, lectured yesterday on the subject, "Must the Chinese go?" He said: "The Chinese government did not make the suggestion to us that their people be permitted to emigrate to this country. The Chinese were opposed to emigration. The suggestion came from the United States, and at that time it was especially conceded and welcomed in California. He built the railways, did the workmen's duty everywhere and added $200,000,000 to the value of her lands by irrigation and drainage, yet she who derived more benefit from the Chinaman than any other state is led by the hoodlums to exclude him. In the last twenty-five years this country has accumulated only 200,000 Chinamen, yet within a year we get hundreds of thousands of other foreigners as immigrants. It is charged that the Chinese send their money home. Well, how long has it been a crime to do this? The Chinese in California earn $9,000,000 a year. Of this they send home $2,000,000. Yet I once heard John Boyle O'Reilly, of Boston, declare with manifestation of pride that Irishmen in this country send $7,000,000 a year to their families in Ireland. It is urged that they will not become citizens, yet there is a law which deprives them of the right to become such."

The Catholic Missions.

At Seschell peninsula says the Free Press the Catholics have just completed a handsome and commodious church, capable of seating nearly 1000 people. The church has two magnificent spires, the sacred edifice costing in the neighborhood of $7,000, the money for which was subscribed by the Indians, who are very numerous in that vicinity. The church has been erected through the indefatigable efforts of the resident priest, Rev. Father F. C. Chirouse, who no doubt feels that he has been successful in the Great Master's work. There are about 3,000 natives who will be attendants at this place of worship, and on the occasion of the dedication of the church on Wednesday next, it is expected there will be fully 4,000 on the Seschell Reserve. The dedication services will be conducted by Right Rev. Bishop L. J. D'Herbomez, Vicar Apostolic of British Columbia, assisted by thirteen priests.

At the Seschell Reserve there are no less than seven Indian brass bands, all of which are in a high state of efficiency.

Mr. M. Manson has taken the contract to cater for the immense throngs during the services which will continue until June 11th.

The village on this reserve is laid out in mathematical order, streets in excellent condition, while the Indians reside in neat and comfortable cottages, the old time "rancherie" being entirely ignored.

The Duke of Connaught and the Duchess spent Tuesday morning quietly at Sir Geo. Stephen's residence, Montreal, while several members of the party drove through the city. At two o'clock the royal party proceeded by train to St. Annes, where they took passage by steamer to run the Lachine rapids. They arrived back in town at five o'clock.

Barnum's Ancient Anecdote.

Barnum himself is an infant in arms as compared with the age of this story. It is about the meanest man on earth. A grocer and general dealer advertised a drink with each purchase. He took trade. A mean man came in with an egg worth a cent and traded it for a darning needle, also worth a cent. Then he demanded his drink and took sherry. He said he always had to have an egg in his sherry and the dealer broke the egg he had just received from him in the sherry. It happened that the egg had two yolks, and so the meanest man demanded two darning needles because of the two yolks.—Detroit Free Press.

Inharmonious Coins.

All coins out of harmony with our decimal system ought to go, and not stand on the order of their going. The gold one dollar and the three dollar pieces have practically gone out of circulation, and this is also true of the three cent nickel. These three are not in harmony with our coinage system and mar its symmetry. The gold coins named are too easily lost.—Washington Star.

THE NEW YORK SHOP GIRL.

Great Improvements in Her Condition During Recent Years.

It will be remembered that about eight years ago there was a popular demand upon the storekeepers that their women clerks should be treated more like human beings than as mere automatons, that they should be given seats behind the counters on which they could rest themselves, and that they should have some apartment wherein they could retire and secure occasional rest from the constant strain upon their nerves and their bodies. The general clamor for reform in this direction led to a most marked improvement in the way in which these young womenwere treated. The change came slowly, but it came at last, and now the proprietors of the great stores have made admirable provisions for the comfort of their employes.

It may have been observed by shoppers that there is a marked improvement in the personnel of the girls employed in the big stores. Purchasers are treated with more courtesy, and the interest in the purchaser is so manifest sometimes as to be almost amusing to persons who have been in the habit of shopping in other cities. This is based upon very sound financial reasons. Several of the big shops have entered into an agreement with their employes to give them a certain percentage on their total daily, weekly or monthly sales, small, it is true, in each sale, but in the aggregate a very handsome addition to their salaries. The result of this is a decided eagerness on the part of the clerks to wait upon the customers and an anxiety that they shall be pleased. This is an improvement founded upon the interest of both employer and employes, and gives the latter an interest in their work which deprives it of much of its drudgery.

The question of seats in the stores has been always an important one because of the necessity for room in the aisles between the counters and the confined space within which the clerks are obliged to work. But an ingenious inventor solved the problem by providing a queer little stool, which resembles an artist's sketching stool in many respects, though more solid and comfortable. This in many stores is hinged to the lower part of the counter, and the rules of the store permit any clerk when she is not actually engaged in a sale to use these stools at will. As most of the shopping is done between 11 a. m. and 4 p. m., this would seem to give the clerks five full hours during which there is little chance for rest, but this is obviated in this way: The clerks in each department are divided into what on shipboard would be known as "watches." During the busy hours in a department where there are fifteen clerks not more than twelve are, with few exceptions, behind the counter at once. But these twelve are understood to do the full work of the fifteen, so that at hourly or fifteen minute intervals they may in turn have a rest.

Formerly the clerks were compelled to get a bite to eat whenever they could between the customers' demands. Now, however, things are changed so that each girl or set of girls has a half hour in which they may eat their meal in quiet. Not only this, but in the big stores a room is provided for them with tables and condiments where they have almost as many comforts as they would have at home. These rooms are usually in the basements, for the employes are compelled as a rule to utilize every bit of space above ground that they can secure, but they are kept clean and comfortable by women who also care for the cleanliness of the main store. There is, however, one exception, in a great store in Fourteenth street, in which the clerks are not obliged to go below ground to eat their luncheons. Here they are given a big apartment upstairs, where they have all the fresh air they desire, and also the opportunity to obtain warm food from the adjacent restaurant.

So far as the accommodations for storing wraps and any little valuables which the clerks may have some desire to keep in safety while they are attending to their duties, they are provided in most stores by small rooms where these th[illegible] be kept under lock and key, and which answer at the same time as dressing rooms, where the clerks may keep a store dress, and in the morning change their street costume for it, to a very manifest saving of the latter.

The routine of the employment of persons in the great stores is based to a great extent upon civil service principles. The department chief is selected because of his or her peculiar fitness for the position. But none of these vice regents of the proprietor is given power of dismissal over an employe who has been more than a year in the store. Each one of these has the right to be heard, and if the excuses are satisfactory the person complaining must give good reasons before they are discharged. Another thing that goes far toward making the shop-girl more content with her lot is that in several of the stores her wages are yearly increased in proportion to her time of service.—New York Times.

A Chemical Ballet.

At a banquet which was given at the conclusion of the German congress of naturalists and physicians at Cologne, Dr. Hoffman alluded to the difficulty experienced by students in understanding the constitution of organic compounds, and suggested as original method of fixing these in their minds. The audience was then were dressed in different colors, to represent the various atoms. At his command these colored female atoms grouped themselves in various fashions to show the chemical constitution of particular compounds and their relations. The composition of benzole, and the formation of aniline and its derivatives, were particularly applauded. The ballet wound up by a representation of the formula for roburite—the new explosive—the finale being a formidable explosion.—Annals of Hygiene.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT.

To the Editor.—In this morning's issue the Rev. P. McF. Macleod rises to "explain fully the misunderstanding" between Mr. Halliday and himself." Let us see. The Rev. P. McF. Macleod, when I asked for his authority for stating that I had whipped a boy until the blood appeared through his trousers, answered "Halliday—he saw it himself." Mr. Halliday, when told this, answered (before witnesses), "I never said it, nor saw it." When I wrote to Mr. Macleod, telling him Mr. Halliday's reply, and asking him to acknowledge he had been mistaken, his verbal answer to my messenger was: "MR. HALLIDAY IS AN UNMITIGATED LIAR!"

Now, it appears that these two have come to some kind of an understanding. The public would like to know the nature of that understanding. Which of these two "chivalrous" gentlemen is going to step to the front and acknowledge himself the author and originator of that statement? I demand an answer, for with that man, if man he may be called, I have something to say.

I told the Rev. P. McF. Macleod in his study, and I tell him again, that Mr. Halliday did not see this boy, that the person does not live who did see him. Before I made that statement I went to the parents of the only three boys whom I have whipped other than upon the hands, and asked them in turn if Mr. Macleod's words could apply to their sons. The first one said, "I could never say that of my boy, it would'nt be true." The second replied, "That was not my boy." The third (Mrs. Winsby), said before witnesses, "Certainly not, I did'nt say it—nobody said it!" Mrs. Winsby went on to say that the day her boy was whipped she had shown him to two neighbors, whom she named, and she referred me to them if I wanted to find out how badly he was hurt. This morning before school (having some curiosity to hear what they would say) I drove out to the Saanich road, and after some difficulty, found these two friends of Mrs. Winsby's. They both (before witnesses) said that they had seen the boy just after he was whipped, but that they had seen no blood. I asked them what they had seen and they said "three marks on his leg." I asked again, "Only three marks?" and the answer was "Only three marks." I may say that every boy in the class (Winsby himself included) laughed at the idea of blood, and stated willingly that they hadn't seen any.

I would like the Rev. P. McF. Macleod and Mr. Jas. A. Halliday to know that I whipped young Winsby not for coming late, but for that, in my eyes, least, despicable and contemptible of sins—lying to escape the consequences of a fault.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I would call your attention to the following FACTS:

Yesterday Mr. Halliday exhibited to me and others the two letters signed "A. Winsby," which Mr. Macleod published in this morning's paper. They were both written on one piece of paper, and the first one was dated May 8th. Mr. Halliday told me that Mrs. Winsby had written them both for him last Saturday, and that he "intended to use them." I asked him how Mrs. Winsby could write a letter on May 30th and date it May 8th. He said that she had written one on the former date, but he had lost that one, and so he asked her to write him another of the same tenor from memory, and that she had done so. Mr. Halliday went on to say that he had since found the original and compared the two, and there wasn't very much difference in them. I told him I'd like to see the real letter of May 8th. He told me it was home. Mr. Halliday allowed me to copy the letter which Mrs. Winsby wrote on May 30th and dated May 8th. That is the letter which Mr. Macleod published this morning. I, this morning, asked Mr. Halliday to see the original letter written by Mrs. Winsby on May 8th, and he refused to accede to my request.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

Arrangements to be Made to Hold One in Victoria Soon.

After the regular drill of the Victoria Fire Department was over last evening the members met in the Tiger house, and the question of a fireman's tournament was discussed at considerable length. It was reported that several citizens had promised to contribute various sums towards a fund to be used to defray the expenses of the prize list, advertising, etc. The Association teams from different cities on the Sound, Portland, Astoria and other Oregon cities, as well as local provincial teams, will compete, provided the amount of prizes be guaranteed to be $2,000.

A committee was appointed to make preparatory arrangements, consisting of Chief T. Deasy, President, W. F. Lindley, secretary, Messrs. C. N. Gowen, F. Hinds, T. Watson, H. McDowell, M. J. Conlin and L. G. Burns. The committee will correspond with the Association to ascertain the date most convenient, (probably about the first of September) and when that matter is settled active work canvassing will be at once commenced. A firemen's tournament in Victoria has long been the wish of the association, but a decided move has never before been made in the matter. Such an event would be of great benefit to the city as it would attract large crowds of visitors from all parts of the Sound and Mainland, several teams of the latter having already promised to compete. The Americans make the annual tournament a regular gala day as witness Tacoma last year, and as Victoria is so well adapted in locality for a gathering of the fire laddies, it is to be hoped that substantial aid will be forthcoming to make the affair a big success.

The amount of money required is not large, and there is every probability that a goodly portion of it would be left here, as some of the local hose teams are fast and would be sure to carry off prizes. The committee will meet again in a day or two and practical work will soon be commenced.

City Police Court.

Jno. Prowley, a sailor belonging to H. M. S. Amphion, was charged with damaging some cabins on Herald street to the amount of $10. The witnesses not being present the case was remanded until to-morrow. Three drunks, all of whom pleaded that they were sober, were fined $5.

Extension of Business.

Messrs. Gilmore & McCandless have leased from Mr. Henry Saunders the premises at present occupied by him, next to the new store which he is now building on Johnson street. The former intend to extend the building back 115 feet from the street line and to put in a plate glass front similar to the magnificent lights adopted by Mr. Saunders for his new store. When completed it will be without doubt the finest gents clothing house in the province.

The Ways of Politicians.

The residents of Victoria West, who have petitioned and prayed the Government without success for the last four years for attention to the necessities of their community, are just now having a boom in improvements. Street lines which could not be obtained before are being marked out, a sidewalk is being laid along Craigflower road and the political necessities of Messrs. Pooley and Higgins are making thing hum generally.

F. O. Home.

The ladies' committee thankfully acknowledge the following donations in May:—Milk (daily) and butter, Mr. Jack; milk and eggs, F. D.; eggs, Mrs. Milne; butter, F. D.; cakes, ham and sugar, A. Friend; rhubarb and cauliflower, Mr. Audean; clothing, Mrs. T. and Mrs. Walbey; cakes, The Young People's Association of St. Andrew's Church; cherries, Mr. Burgess; preserves, F. D.; milk, Mr. Rogers; carpets, Mrs. Milne.

A Chastar Candidate.

It is announced that Mr. R. H. Hall, of the Hudson Bay post, Fort Simpson, will contest the district of Cassiar at the approaching election in the interest of the Government. The company, which it was stated some time ago had laid down as an unvarying rule that none of its servants should engage in politics has consented to Mr. Hall's nomination. Mr. Hall is claimed by his friends to be well qualified for the position and to be well supported in the district. Mr. Cunningham, the well known canner, will oppose him.

Hope Schon is not Fooling Us.

An Ottawa dispatch says: "At an Equal Rights meeting last night the announcement was made by an Englishman from Manchester named Schon that in his capacity of Secretary of the Manchester Conservative Association he knew Balfour, Irish Secretary, and was convinced from his knowledge of him that the Imperial Government would readily amend the British North American Act when requested to do so by Canadians. Mr. Schon is on his way to take up his residence in British Columbia and has been in the city several days."

Infringing the Act.

It is stated, says the Free Press, that Mr. Dick, Inspector of Mines, has laid information against the owners and managers of the Union Collieries at Comox, for employing Chinamen underground in the various capacities, contrary to the law recently passed by the Provincial Legislature. The summons this morning, and the preliminary trial will probably take place at Comox in about one week's time. It is reported that 43 Chinamen all told are working underground in the collieries, in fact that no change was made when the Act came in force. The evidence at the trial, however, will soon show the truth of the occurrences.

Never Here Before.

Some of the most unique designs for spring cloth, for gentlemen's wear, New line of spring suitings, displayed for first time in Victoria by Campbell & Simpkins, the fashionable Government street Tailors.

Breach of Promise.

KAMLOOPS, B. C., June 3.—In the Supreme Court to-day, Justice Walkem presiding, the case of Miss Jane Smith vs. Thos. Roadley, being an action for breach of promise of marriage, came up for trial, and Miss Smith was awarded three thousand dollars damages.

To Evangelize Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—The missionary board of the Protestant Episcopal Church is about to evangelize Alaska. Dr. J. R. Driggs of Delaware, is in the city en route for Point Hope, Alaska, to establish a station there. H. O. Cherry is also in the city en route for Anvik, Alaska, as assistant to the Rev. J. M. Chapman, Protestant Episcopal missionary at that place.

An Ugly Cut.

On Tuesday afternoon as W. H. Dunnington, an employee of S. Leiser, was piling up a lot of flour, the stack, which was evidently badly packed, fell down, carrying the man with it. He was standing on a box and had his side to the flour, when the accident happened, and was thrown on his face, receiving an ugly cut in the forehead and one back of the ear. Up to latest accounts he was resting easily, and the doctor who attended him expects him to be all right in a few days.

Street Car Company's Meeting.

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the National Electric Tramway was held in the company's offices last evening, 5639 shares being represented. The object of the meeting was to confirm a resolution passed at a previous meeting authorizing the directors to issue stock or bonds sufficient to meet the requisite extension.

The president reported that the company's cars had transferred 14,000 people during the holidays without an accident which he thought was reason for congratulation.

The Shawnigan Sawmill.

The machinery for Messrs. Lowe & Morrison's sawmill at Shawnigan is being shipped up the line, it having arrived from the east. The motive plant consists of a 90 horse power steel boiler and a 70 horse power engine, which were manufactured at Peterboro, Ont. The finish on the work is first class and the design indicates strength and durability. The new firm will start with good material and should do good work.

Growing Victoria.

The tender of Mr. A. H. Milne has been accepted for the construction of a two story, twelve roomed residence for Mr. John Earsman on Parkington street. The plans of the house have been prepared by Mr. T. B. Norgate, architect, and show that the building when completed will be of unique yet pleasing design, while the arrangement of the several apartments will be both convenient and homelike. All modern conveniences will be embodied in the new residence, which when complete will be an ornament to that part of the city it is to be built on. The cost of the building will be about $3,500.

Coffee Fund.

The efforts of the members of the Victoria fire department have in the past often been substantially recognized by those whose property has been saved from destruction, and the contributions thus received have been made the nucleus of a coffee fund out of which payment is made for coffee after a hard run at night when a cup of that beverage is very grateful. The present cash in the hands of the Chief would be considerably augmented if several promised amounts, for which due acknowledgment has been publicly given, were paid over. The coffee fund is a good thing and should be recognized by the public.

A Warning.

MR. EDITOR,—It is a well-known fact that the majority of people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seven-tenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath; dull, oppressive headache; offensive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes; a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. These are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy. Delays are proverbially dangerous, and in the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. If it has cured other sufferers, it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. HO! FOR THE GORGE.

The Steamer Florence to Make Saturday and Sunday Trips.

Commencing on Saturday next, at 2 o'clock, the steamer Florence will make trips to the Gorge on the afternoons of two days in the week, viz., on Saturday and Sunday. As communication with the beautiful suburbs in that direction have been needed for a long time, the enterprise of Capt. Holmes in putting on a fast ferry will no doubt meet with success. The Gorge is one of the great rendezvous of pleasure seekers, and only requires to be more easily reached to make it more frequented than ever.

It is understood that if the experiment is a success, that trips will be made on other evenings of the week, which may eventually lead to a daily ferry being put on. The sail up the arm, in itself one of the most delightful imaginable, and will find great favor with the many summer visitors.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A Sailor Tries to End his Life by Jumping Into Esquimalt Harbor.

On Tuesday afternoon, a petty officer man named Davie, belonging to H. M. S. Amphion, jumped off the drydock into the water and attempted to drown himself. The splash was heard by one of his comrades who immediately ran to the rescue and without waiting to rid himself of his clothes, jumped in after his drowning friend. After some trouble the would-be-suicide was rescued and taken to shore, and thence to the naval hospital, where at latest accounts he was doing well. No cause can be assigned for the attempt at self-destruction, although it is rumored among the crew that the man has frequent insane fits, one of which probably possessed him when he jumped into the water.

A CLUMSY FORGERY.

A Bad Cheque for $2500 Presented at the Bank of British Columbia.

A cheque was presented at the Bank of British Columbia this morning which on examination was found to be a very clumsy forgery. The cheque was drawn for $2500 and signed by "W. C. Ward," the name of the manager of the bank.

The party presenting it was Mr. Silas of the Swan Lake Hotel, who gives this explanation of how he came by it. A man by the name of Jas. Buchanan, who was at his house and ostensibly a moneyed man, borrowed some five or ten dollars of him (Silas) and gave the cheque in security for it. Buchanan gave the impression that he was a moneyed man, looking for land and on Monday went out in company with another, obstensibly to view the country and look for suitable locations. Buchanan, however, left his guide at Stevens and the guide returned to the Swan Lake Hotel. Silas who had advanced on the cheque thought he was out just so much money, but as he was coming to town he went to the bank to ascertain whether it was any good or not. On the cheque being presented the teller saw at once that it was not Mr. Ward's signature, no attempt at imitation of his handwriting having been made. Silas said he had given value for the cheque but would not say how much or what value. The police were at once notified with the result that Jas. Buchanan, who hails from Colorado, was arrested in the city and lodged in the provincial jail. He will likely be tried on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences.

The case has none of the elements which go to make up even a partially skrewd attempt at forgery, but on the other hand shows all the clumsiness which one would expect of a crank or drunken man in desperate straits to raise a little money.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

Ex-Mayor Hendry, of Westminster, is in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Mintoft, England, are at Roccabella.

John Kurtz is ill and confined to his room temporarily.

R. H. Hall, of Fort Simpson, is registered at the Driard.

A. W. Vowell was a passenger from Vancouver last evening.

Geo. Cooper returned last evening from a trip across the Sound.

F. C. Field, of Vancouver, and H. V. Edmunds, of Westminster, are in town.

Capt. Irving and wife were passengers for the Mainland by the Yosemite.

Ben Evans, the inseparable companion and attendant of the Chief Justice, returned from the Nanaimo assizes by to-day's train.

J. P. Walls returned from Nanaimo to-day where he had been to act as crown prosecutor at the assizes. Mr Walls says he was extremely surprised at the great advancement of Nanaimo during the past three years. Like all other western cities, it grows apace.

Chief Justice Sir Matthew B. Begbie returned from Nanaimo to-day where he had been attending spring assizes. As there were no cases before his lordship, the regulation pair of white kid gloves were presented by Sheriff Drake. The Chief Justice was much pleased at the state of the assize calendar.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

Notes of Interest Concerning Our Water Front—General Marine News.

The steamer Sardonyx will leave for the north this evening with a heavy cargo.

The steamer Rainbow left on her usual round trip this morning with a good batch of freight and several passengers.

A new foghorn, operated by steam and compressed air, will be put in operation July 1 at the light station at Seward's point, on the eastern extremity of Discovery island, Haro strait, B. C. The fog signal will be blasts at intervals of one minute, of a second's duration. The wooden can buoy, which has been heretofore maintained off Kelp reefs, in Haro straits, off the southeast coast of Vancouver island, has been replaced by a spar buoy projecting fifteen feet, painted black.

The United States hydrographic officer has notified ship-masters that Captain Hunter of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, reports the existence of a rock over which the sea breaks heavily between Wolf rock and the shore of Dallas island, north of the De Reid entrance, Alaska. Referring to a notice to mariners on a reported rock off the Gulf of Georgia, British Columbia, on the west coast of Vancouver island, B. C., Captain Clark, who originally reported the rock, says he has since passed over and out at high water, as previously reported.

Prospecting for Coal.

The steamer Maude took a boiler up to Nanaimo which will be shipped to Comox, per steamer Rainbow. The boiler is intended for the new V. C. Co.'s diamond drill at Comox, where they are prospecting for coal.

Open Doors Wanted.

A meeting of the school trustees will be held this evening at which a complaint of Mr. Bland against the teacher, Mr. Kaye, for whipping the former's boy, will be considered. It is to be hoped the court of inquiry will sit with open doors. Those are not wanting who attribute the very unprofitable school controversy, in which blood, religion and education were very badly mixed up, to the bad practice of a public body in barring its doors and pulling down the blinds before proceeding to business.

Special Card.

As the public have so generously contributed to the success of my great reduction sale, I am induced to continue it for one month longer on the same terms. Here are the most liberal prices ever offered in British Columbia or elsewhere: $10 pants for $7, $12 pants for $8, $14 pants for $10, $16 pants for $12, $30 suits for $25, $35 suits for $30, $40 suits for $35. All work guaranteed a perfect fit or no sale. J. McCallum, "The Famous Californian Tailor," 43 Fort street, Victoria, B. C. Prompt and careful attention to letter orders. Samples mailed. m29-1m

Texada.

The party consisting of W. E. Webb, T. D. Jones, A. Raper, B. Raper, R. Evans, J. W. Stirtan, W. Williams and H. Kirk, who went to Texada last week for the purpose of inspecting their various claims, returned to Nanaimo on Tuesday, after having had a very pleasant trip. One of the most interested owners of the Texada Gold and Silver Mining Company, who was seen by a representative of the press yesterday said: I can't say any more at present than that we are well pleased with the work being done, and that our future prospects look exceedingly good. The men are engaged in driving a cross-cut tunnel of about eight feet, and of which they have already completed thirty feet, and therefore will have to go another fifty feet before they can get to the main ledge. The indications are all that can be desired.

Mr. R. Evans, of Nanaimo, has some very rich specimens of ore taken from the "Nut Cracker," which show a large quantity of free gold. This mine is showing better indications than it did last year when the owners were afraid it was going to pan out. The ledge is becoming wider the deeper they go down, and also shows a larger quantity of free milling gold. It is calculated this mine will yet bring in a very large sum of money into the coffers of the owners.

Baer-Berridge.

The residence of Mr. George Berridge, 34 Second street, was the scene of a happy event at 5 o'clock last evening. Rev. W. W. Baer, the retiring pastor of the Gorge road Methodist church, was united in marriage with Annie Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Wm. Berridge, of Windsor, England. Rev. J. E. Starr performed the ceremony. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dixi H. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Watson, and the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Miss Cora Watson acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. W. H. Berridge as bridegroom. After partaking of a wedding supper with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Baer proceeded on board the City of Kingston, en route for the Dalles, Oregon, where a short honeymoon will be spent. They then return to go to Nanaimo, Mr. Baer's next field of labor. A gifted young preacher as he is, Mr. Baer has during his residence in Victoria made many friends, while accomplishing a great deal of good. In his departure all will wish him and his bonny bride a happy life, unclouded by any sorrow. The wedding cake, which was one of the most beautiful description, was made by Mr. Henry Clay. It was quite three feet high.

The following is a list of the presents: Magnificent silver service, presented by friends from the Gorge road Church; silver butter dish and knife, presented by the members of the Gorge road choir; handsomely mased cake basket, from Mrs. R. W. Colvin and Miss Gibson; glass fruit dish on silver stand, from Mr. and Mrs. Dixi H. Ross; China tea services, from Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Watson; Japanese 5 o'clock tea set, from Mrs. J. Walsh; glass fruit dish and set of small dishes, from Mr. and Mrs. Johnson; Breakfast cruet, from Mrs. Gregg; silver card receiver, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Humber; brass pinan lamp, from Mr. and Mrs. McLennan; half dozen, oxydised egg spoons in case, from Miss McConnell; silver teapot, from Mr. F. C. Berridge; bronze clock, from Mr. and Mrs. G. Berridge; pair of hand-painted plaques, from Mrs. A. Watson (Nanaimo); glass jug and goblets, from Mr. W. Watson (Nanaimo); silver spoon holder, from Mr. and Mrs. Luke Humber; a hammock, from Mr. and Mrs. Firth; [illegible] with pickle jar, from Miss Watson; glass water pitcher and half-dozen tumblers, from Mrs. David Spencer; China dinner service and a fine Newcombe piano, from the groom; the old family silver, from the bride's parents; silver syrup jug, from Mr. and Mrs. Powell (Winnipeg); silver sugar bowl and cream jug, from Mr. and Mrs. Redborough; gold brooch and fancy work, from Miss Redborough; afternoon tea cloth, from Mrs. Holly; fancy mats, etc., from Miss Clarke; fancy work, from Miss Fassnidge; bread fork, from Miss Downs; silver table egg boiler, from Mr. Godfrey; fancy work, from Mrs. Grace; dinner cruet, from Mr. W. H. and Miss G. Berridge.

F. Richards, the Champion Boot Black, formerly with W. Whittaker, has this day moved to the "Gem" barber shop, 74 Yates street, opposite the Poodle Dog. Call and get a patent leather shine. 14-1tf

Mr. John Chisholm, of New Westminster, arrived in the city yesterday morning. Mr. Chisholm is taking advice concerning the legality of the will of his brother, the late D. Chisholm, M. P. He claims that undue influence was used by certain persons during his brother's illness to cause him to willhis entire property to his sister.

A Chinaman jumped off a train in motion at New Westminster the other day. A Columbian reporter describes it thus: "Not being accustomed to jumping on and off trains while in motion, John stepped off the lower step with the left foot instead of the right, touched the ground, whirled around about steen times in the air and landed upon the small island of hair on the top of his head directly across the track."

THE EIGHT-HOUR MOVEMENT.

Why the Eight-Hour Day is Regarded as the Ideal Working Day.

I regard the eight hour day as the ideal working day for artisans and mechanics. Of course it is always difficult to attain the ideal. I say for artisans and mechanics because I am not so sure it is necessary for agricultural laborers. They do not require so short a day as workers in factories. We ought to bear in mind the changed conditions of industry in a consideration of this question. Formerly in manufactures there was an opportunity for physical, intellectual, and I may even say spiritual development in the work itself. Formerly the workingman could put a portion of his soul, as it were, into his handiwork. I have seen evidences of this myself in the products of the guild industry in old German cities like Augsburg, Nuremberg and others. You may see in these cities chairs and tables, for example, which are genuine works of art. Now, the situation of the artisan is totally changed. Instead of manufacturing the whole of an article, he manufactures perhaps the one-hundredth part of an article, and his toil becomes mere routine—soulless drudgery. If he is to have an opportunity for the development of all his powers this must be sought chiefly outside the workshop, because labor within the workshop has become merely a means to an end, and has ceased to be in any respect an end in itself. It gives a means for life, but in itself it is deadening and life-giving. On the other hand, work in factories of the present time, with our rapidly moving machinery, makes large drafts on a man's physical and nervous strength, which cannot be met by the expiration of eight hours.

We must consider this eight-hour question from the standpoint of physiology and hygiene, and from that standpoint I think eight hours is enough. I do not believe that, were the eight hour day generally introduced, we would experience from it any of the disasters which are now so freely predicted. I do not think, judging from actual experience, that it would in the long run result in diminished production, and I am very certain that I would not lower wages. Reductions of the length of the working day in the past—and we have had such in our history—have neither diminished production nor lowered wages.

Mr. Lewis Miller, president of the Chatauqua assembly and a large manufacturer of agricultural implements at Akron, Ohio, introduced the eight-hour day in his establishment two or three years ago. In conversation with me he has expressed himself as delighted with the result of the experiment. He says it has not diminished the amount of work accomplished, and the men are very much pleased with the shorter working time. I consider, however, the experience of Australia as most instructive. The eight-hour day was introduced in that country about 1855 and has been in operation ever since. Its introduction is there celebrated as we celebrate the Fourth of July. Not long since I read a lengthy account of one of these annual celebrations in one of the leading newspapers of Australia. It appears that all the chief officials of the state and city, as well as leading manufacturers and merchants, participated in the celebration. Some of the speeches of the large employers were especially interesting. They described their various serious apprehensions about the results of the eight-hour day at the time of the great agitation which preceded its introduction. They frankly acknowledged, however, the prophesies of evils made at the time have not been fulfilled. They expressed themselves as pleased with the practical workings of the eight-hour day, and said they would not go back to the old system of long hours if they could. While, however, I am in favor of placing the eight-hour day before us as an ideal, I think the agitation for it should be conducted in a careful manner and a conservative and conciliatory spirit. Too much passion is displayed both by workingmen and their employers. There can be no doubt that the agitation of the eight-hour day is destined to be finally successful, and that within comparatively a short period of years. The effort to introduce the eight-hour day this year, however, will be only partially successful, because such a radical change cannot, as a rule, be made at once. Such changes usually come about gradually, a small gain here and a small gain there, until finally the entire object is gained.—Prof. Richard T. Ely in the Hartford Post-Interview.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

Betting on horse races has been forbidden by the French government.

BEATEN AT HIS OWN GAME.

Word comes from 'Frisco about a trick played on the famous Harry Bethune. This noted sprinter was outwitted by some sporting men at Fresno, Cal., recently. He won $4,000 from the sports, and they, learning the race was a "job," planned to get even with him. They regained his confidence, and then they induced him to bet on a horse at the Sacramento race. He lost all he had won. Bethune is now in Denver penniless and disgusted.

PRESENTED WITH A WATCH AND CHAIN.

Yesterday afternoon while the ball game was in progress, Willie Lange, catcher of the Townsend club, was presented with a splendid gold watch and chain. Attached to the chain was a charm made in the form of a base ball bat and a solid piece containing the inscription "Presented by the Ladies of Port Townsend, June, 1890." Mr. Lange's excellent work as catcher in the Townsend nine has had much to do with the club's success.

BASE BALL.

The Colts of Port Townsend defeated the Seattle Reds on Sunday by a score of 24 to 61.

The standing to date of the clubs in the Pacific Northwest league is as follows:

Team	Won.	Lost.	Per cent.
Spokane	12	4	.600
Tacoma	9	6	.529
Seattle	9	10	.473
Portland	7	11	.389

THE RING.

NEW YORK, June 4.—A cablegram received from London to-day states that sporting men there were much pleased to learn that Joe McAuliffe had accepted Frank P. Slavin's challenge. The Pelican Club, however, did not send the money which it agreed to allow McAuliffe for expenses.

THE WHEEL.

Port Townsend wheelmen are talking of a bicycle club.

HORSE VS. BICYCLE.

The race between Shaw's Dart and Morgan, the bicyclist, which takes place on Saturday afternoon, is attracting a good deal of attention. Both the horse and bicycle rider are being trained hard for the event. Both have a heavy race before them with the chances probably in favor of the bicycle. The track is being put in very fine condition and on the day of the race will be as good as could be wished for.

CYCLING.

Three more of the latest improved Branford safeties arrived from the east this morning per the C. P. R. and Islander. These safety wheels are becoming very popular among cyclists, and rightly, too, for they are without doubt the best built in Canada. Several more are on the way to Victoria.

The track at the Driving Park is getting in first class trim, and the race on Saturday between Morgan, the wheelman, and Shaw's Dart, will be one of speed. Considerable interest is being manifested in the race.

The Wheat Crop.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or in fact, at any time and the better it is the more popular it becomes.

Take your spring suits to John T. Pierre to be cleaned and repaired. He makes it a specialty. 78 Yates St.

Dangerous.

The march of improvement is always accompanied with more or less danger, but precautions should be taken to minimize it as much as possible. Particularly should care be exercised in blasting out foundations that the force of the explosives be not allowed to send chunks of rock around in a way calculated to be a menace to the life and limb of the public. The necessity of exercising care was exemplified the other evening when a blast let off at the excavations for the Canada Western Hotel sent showers of stones flying away in all directions. Some of over a half-pound weight went spinning up over Government street and into Courtenay street, and several of them fell with a crash on the sidewalk of the latter street near the Douglas House. A lady with two little children was passing at the time, but fortunately were not struck by the flying missiles. Had they been perhaps a fatal accident would have to be chronicled. Care should be taken that no more such close risks are run.
